AI Overview

Leading German manufacturers of fire protection distribution boxes include Spelsberg, ZAPP-ZIMMERMANN, Protectoplus, and Rex Industrie-Produkte Graf von Rex GmbH. Key Manufacturers

Spelsberg is a family-owned company with over 115 years of experience in electrical installation and enclosure technology. They design and produce high-quality fire protection boxes and distribution enclosures, with VDE and UL-certified testing laboratories ensuring compliance with international safety standards.

ZAPP-ZIMMERMANN specializes in innovative fire protection systems, including cable, pipe, and combination seals, as well as firestop joint seals. They have over 30 years of experience in providing customized fire protection solutions for industrial and commercial applications.

Protectoplus focuses on environmentally friendly storage technology and fire protection containers. Since 1993, they have been planning, manufacturing, and installing safe storage solutions, including F90-rated hazardous material storage rooms and shelves.

Rex Industrie-Produkte Graf von Rex GmbH develops and manufactures technical textiles, high-temperature insulation, and fire protection products. Their offerings include fire-resistant enclosures and insulation solutions for industrial components.

Additional Notable Companies

Other German companies active in fire protection systems and distribution boxes include ABBS Fire Protection Systems, which provides customized fire suppression systems and maintenance services across Europe, and Minimax, known for comprehensive fire protection solutions including structural fire protection and extinguishing equipment.

Considerations for Selection

When choosing a manufacturer, consider:

- Certification and compliance: Ensure products meet VDE, UL, FM, or EN 12845 standards.
- Customization: Some manufacturers offer tailored solutions for sp...
