

Intelligent PDU cabinet power strip manufacturer

AI Overview

Leading manufacturers of intelligent PDU cabinet power strips include Sipolar, Panduit, EDP Europe, Intellinet Europe, and Vertiv, offering advanced monitoring, remote control, and flexible deployment options.

Key Manufacturers and Offerings

Sipolar provides industrial-grade smart PDUs designed for data centers, featuring active metering, remote monitoring of energy, temperature, and humidity, user-set alarms for circuit overloads, and hot-swappable meters for seamless maintenance. Their PDUs support remote control via network connectivity and can be customized for OEM requirements.

Panduit offers the EL2P intelligent PDU, which simplifies deployment and management with dual 1GB Ethernet ports, Wi-Fi, Bluetooth, and integration with third-party DCIM applications. It supports daisy-chaining up to 64 units, real-time power monitoring, and is suitable for hospitals, financial institutions, and industrial environments.

EDP Europe manufactures the iPower ACU series, a third-generation intelligent PDU range with advanced control units, up to 48 switched/monitored outlets, environmental sensors, and full SNMPv3, IPv4/IPv6, and HTTPS support. Models include IP1 through IP4, offering incremental features such as per-socket monitoring, remote switching, and programmable start-up sequences.

Intellinet Europe provides 19" and 10" PDUs, including vertical power strips, offering flexibility for different rack layouts and space requirements. Their portfolio supports both active and passive networking environments.

Vertiv delivers a range of PDUs from basic to monitored and switched units, with remote monitoring and management capabilities. Their solutions are designed for small data centers, branch offices, and critical IT infrastructure, ensuring consistent power delivery and operational efficiency.
